Kentucky Museum of Art and Craft Extends Summer Camp Hours at Blackacre

Louisville, KY, July 12, 2013- The Kentucky Museum of Art and Craft (KMAC) has extended the daily hours for Blackacre Art Week on July 22-26 from 9:15a.m. to 5:15p.m. in order to provide parents and guardians extra time for the commute to Blackacre Conservancy located off Taylorsville Road at 3200 Tucker Station Road. Blackacre Art Week, designed for children in grades 6 through 8 (ages 10-14), utilizes the nature preserve as the launching point for exploration in creative expression. Participants will attend various workshops in stone carving, sand casting, and sculptural assemblage focusing on the creative process while developing new skills. Workshops are taught by local professional artists who are distinguished for their craft as well as the experienced KMAC Education staff. All art supplies are included, but campers will need to bring a lunch and athletic/gym shoes to keep up with this action packed art week.

Other planned activities include: discovery of Blackacre's fields of open pasture, a hike on Waterfall Trail, a visit to the animal barn, pond exploration and outdoor games.
